The Essentials of Dispensationalism

Three chefs were working in a restaurant one day, when their kitchen supervisor approached them with an order, and instructions on how to properly prepare it. The first chef looked at the instructions, and said "You can show a recipe to 100 different people, and each of them get a different meaning. You can't understand recipes, so why even read them?"

The second chef took a slightly different angle. He said "I don't believe this recipe to be the literal directions of our supervisor. I believe the ingredients all have hidden meanings. I think the meat represents one thing, the spices and other ingredients symbolize something else, and the time and cooking temperature are some sort of mysterious allegory."

While the other two were engaging in their debate, the third chef simply took the recipe, and prepared the dish according to instructions. The dish turned out to be delicious, and I'm sure you can guess what happened next. This chef was rewarded for following directions properly, while the other two were reprimanded. While this little story may seem somewhat silly, it sadly illustrates the attitude that many people take toward God and His Word, the Bible, which is to be OUR instructions, our "recipe," for how to live our lives. Rather than affirm the Apostolic teaching that the Scriptures are the infallible Word of God. As a result of this attitude the floodgate have open to a devastating deluge of confusion and division, from which the church has never fully recovered. In order for the Church as a whole to function as God intends, there MUST be a re-discovery of the foundational, literal Truth of the Bible.

We intend to do just that over the next eight weeks looking at the Essentials of Dispensationalism.

Message for today - Essentials of dispensationalism.

Closing song - More love, more power

Do you find it difficult to understand the Bible?

The Bible seems so complex, so hard to figure out, In one place it says you can only eat certain "clean" animals, but another tells us all foods are to be received and eaten with thanksgiving. No wonder so many people never open their Bibles unless they're in church! "Leave it to the pastor - he's the expert. We pay him to tell us what the bible says."

God didn't give the bible to pastors and seminary professors. He gave it to everyone. Actually, He wrote the bible in such a way that the average reader can grasp its truths if they only follow a few fundamental principles.

Come on join us on Tuesday October 20th at 7pm to learn about a straight forward approach in, Understanding your Bible called Dispensationalism.
